CHAPTER I: METHODOLOGICAL JUSTIFICATION, STATEMENT OF THE PROBLEM, AIM AND PROGRAM OF STUDY

1. INTRODUCTORY ORIENTATION
  - 1.1 Person, world, and science
  - 1.2 The phenomenological method
  - 1.3 Hermeneutic phenomenology as a genuine synthesis of the phenomenological and hermeneutical methods
  - 1.4 The possible methodological significance of a hermeneutic phenomenology for pedagogics
2. THEMATIC ANALYSIS AND STATEMENT OF THE PROBLEM
  - 2.1 Orthopedagogic evaluation
    - 2.1.1 Orthopedagogics as pedagogics
    - 2.1.2 Orthopedagogic evaluation of the disharmonious dynamic of educating in school practice
    - 2.1.3 Orthopedagogic evaluation of the disharmonious dynamic of teaching in school practice
  - 2.2 Inadequate person unfolding of a child in school
    - 2.2.1 A lesson situation
    - 2.2.2 Ways of accompaniment to self-actualization in a lesson situation
    - 2.2.3 A child's potentialities for personal unfolding
  - 2.3 Specific learning problems as inadequate personal unfolding
3. SUMMARIZED STATEMENT OF THE PROBLEM: THE POSSIBILITY OF THE INADEQUATE REALIZATION OF THE ACCOMPANYING FUNCTIONS OF A TEACHER
  - 3.1 Possible inadequate realization of the educative function in a lesson situation in connection with the contemporary societal problematic of alienation
    - 3.1.1 Defective teaching tact in a lesson situation
  - 3.2 Possible inadequate realization of the teaching function in a lesson situation
    - 3.2.1 Defective general knowledge and skills
    - 3.2.2 Defective specific subject knowledge and skills
    - 3.2.3 Defective professional knowledge and skills

CHAPTER II: ACCOMPANYING CHILD POTENTIALITIES OF PERSONAL UNFOLDING TO SELF- ACTUALIZATION AS A PEDAGOGICAL- DIDACTIC TASK AND THE POSSIBILITY OF DISHARMONY

1. EDUCATIVE DYNAMIC
  - 1.1 Introductory orientation
    - 1.1.1 Personal unfolding as an anthropological-pedagogical way of being
  - 1.2 The relationship between learning and personal unfolding as accompanied elevation in meaning and level on the way to adulthood
2. TEACHING DYNAMIC
  - 2.1 The relationship between the dynamic of educating and of teaching
  - 2.2 Accompaniment to self-actualizing child psychic life potentialities via teaching
3. THE SIGNIFICANCE AND NECESSITY OF A PSYCHOPEDAGOGICAL INTERPRETATION OF THE NORM-IMAGE OF ADULTHOOD WITH RESPECT TO AN ACCOUNTABLE TEACHING PRACTICE AND EVALUATION
4. SELF-ACCOMPANIED UNFOLDING OF PERSONAL POTENTIALITIES AS EDUCATIVE AIM FROM A PSYCHOPEDAGOGICAL PERSPECTIVE
5. ACCOMPANYING TO ACTUALIZING PERSONAL POTENTIALITY AS A PEDAGOGICAL-DIDACTIC TASK “IN CONTRAST TO” ACCOMPANYING TO ACTUALIZING LEARNING
6. THE DISHARMONIOUS DYNAMIC OF EDUCATING AND OF TEACHING
  - 6.1 The possibility that the inadequate accompaniment to unfolding the personal potentialities of a child in school requires a critical evaluation
  - 6.2 The connections among “teaching problems”, “learning problems”, and “problems in becoming adult”: An orthopedagogic evaluation

- 6.2.1 The possible reverberation of a problematic family educative event in a disharmonious teaching dynamic
- 6.2.2 The possible connections among disharmonious educative relationships in a lesson situation and problems of learning and becoming adult
- 7. THE NECESSITY FOR A CRITICAL PERSPECTIVE ON A LIFEWORLD ALIENATING SUBJECT-CENTERED CURRICULUM AND TEACHING PRACTICE FROM THE PERSPECTIVE OF BECOMING ADULT
- 8. APPENDIX: PERTINENT FINDINGS OF THE HUMAN SCIENCES RESERCH COUNCIL (HSRC) INVESTIGATION OF THE PROVISION OF EDUCATION IN THE R.S.A.
- 9. SYNTHESIS
- 10. RECOMMENDATIONS
- 11. REFERENCES

CHAPTER III: DISHARMONIOUS DYNAMIC OF EDUCATING AND OF TEACHING AS ALIENATION FROM A CHILD’S POTENTIALITIES FOR OPTIMAL PERSONAL UNFOLDING: A MACROSTRUCTURAL EXPLORATION

- 1. INTRODUCTORY ORIENTATION
- 2. ALIENATION: A CONTEMPORARY SOCIAL-SOCIETAL PROBLEMATIC
- 3. ALIENATION IN THE SCHOOL: AN ORTHOPEDAGOGICAL INTERPRETATION
- 4. INADEQUATE AFFECTIVE ACCOMPANIMENT IN A LESSON SITUATION AS ALIENATING A CHILD FROM HIS POTENTIALITIES FOR PERSONAL UNFOLDING
  - 4.1 The “hidden curriculum” as unaccountable pathic-affective accompaniment as alienating a child in a lesson situation
  - 4.2 The affective as personal alienation of teacher and child in a lesson situation
  - 4.3 The possibility of alienating a child and fellow pupils because of inadequate accompaniment to realizing their potentialities for co-existing
  - 4.4 The possibility of over-emphasizing affective and social accompaniment as alienating a child from actualizing his personal cognitive and normative potentialities

- 4.5 Alienation from meaningfully experiencing and lived-experiencing bodiliness in senso-pathically, pathically and affectively differentiated ways
- 4.6 Accompaniment to an alienation from affective and cognitive ways of meaningfully experiencing sexuality—the condition for personally unfolding to masculine and feminine modes of adulthood
- 4.7 Alienating a child from the positive experiences of his own potentialities by accompanying him to a fear of failure
- 4.8 Alienating a child from a favorable self-image by accompanying him to feeling inferior
- 4.9 The quality and level of a teacher's affective personal self-actualization
5. INADEQUATE COGNITIVE ACCOMPANIMENT IN A LESSON SITUATION AS ALIENATING A CHILD FROM HIS COGNITIVE POTENTIALITIES FOR PERSONAL UNFOLDING
  - 5.1 Cognitive accompaniment that is unfaithful to reality and life as alienating childlike experiencing from the reality and problems of the adult lifeworld
  - 5.2 Accompaniment to alienating a child's potentialities for independent thinking, as cognitive potentialities, from personal unfolding
  - 5.3 Formalistic regimentation as alienating a child's creative cognitive potentialities from personal unfolding
  - 5.4 Accompaniment in a lesson situation to alienating a child's potentialities for fantasizing from personal unfolding
  - 5.5 Alienation from a love for learning as a value underlying self-guided personal cognitive actualization
  - 5.6 Cognitive accompaniment bounded to the past as alienating potentialities of personal actualization with an eye to an unknown future
  - 5.7 The quality and level of a teacher's personal cognitive self-actualization

6. INADEQUATE NORMATIVELY MEANINGFUL ACCOMPANIMENT AS ALIENATING A CHILD'S NORMATIVE POTENTIALITIES FROM HIS PERSONAL UNFOLDING
  - 6.1 Authoritarian as well as permissive authority-accompaniment as alienating a child from his potentials for emancipating to normative independence and responsibility
  - 6.2 Accompaniment to individualism as an alienation from co-existential values in a lesson situation
  - 6.3 Alienating from the meaningful self-actualization of equally valuable potentialities for personal unfolding in a pluralistic society
  - 6.4 One-sided vocational directed accompaniment as an alienation from meaningfully actualizing vocational, work and free-time potentialities
  - 6.5 Materialistic-scientific accompaniment as alienating from a meta-scientific, transcendental reality
  - 6.6 Quality and level of the normative personal self-actualization of a teacher
7. CONCLUDING REMARKS: ACCOMPANYING AND FREEDOM IN A LESSON SITUATION
8. SYNTHESIS

CHAPTER IV: THE DISHARMONIOUS DYNAMIC OF TEACHING AS ACCOMPANIMENT TO LEARNING PROBLEMS: AN EVALUATION OF THE LESSON PRACTICE

1. INTRODUCTORY ORIENTATION
  - 1.1 Intervening with a child with "learning problems"
  - 1.2 The development of the phenomenological-pedagogical approach in South Africa
2. THE POSSIBILITY OF INADEQUATE ACCOMPANIMENT IN A LESSON SITUATION AS THE BEGINNING OF LEARNING PROBLEMS
  - 2.1 Accompanying to self-actualizing in a lesson situation
  - 2.2 The responsibility to be self-critical and accountable in teaching

2.3 Teaching problems” and “learning problems”

2.3.1 The possibility of “teaching problems” in a lesson situation

2.3.2 “Learning problems”

2.4 The teacher as a person in a lesson situation

2.4.1 The connection between the status and the experienced status (self-image) of a teacher with learning problems

2.4.2 The possibility of a teacher him/herself having “learning problems”

2.5 The quality of actualizing the essences of the lesson structure in connection with learning problems

2.5.1 The teaching aim

2.5.2 Principles of actualization

2.5.3 Disharmonious dynamic in terms of the course of the lesson and of learning

CHAPTER V: A LIMITED, EXPLORATORY EMPIRICAL INVESTIGATION: THE MEANING GIVEN TO THEIR SCHOOL SITUATION BY A GROUP OF STANDARD NINE (11TH GRADE) STUDENTS

1. INTRODUCTION

2. METHODOLOGICAL CONSIDERATIONS AND THE AIM OF THE STUDY

3. PLANNING AND DESIGNING THE EXPLORATORY MEDIUM

4. THE INVESTIGATION ITSELF

4.1 Ordering, systematizing and interpreting the research data

4.1.1 Criteria for grouping the pupils

4.2 Standard nine pupils’ giving meaning to the dynamic of educating-teaching as accompaniment to personal unfolding

4.2.1 Affective accompaniment

4.2.2 Cognitive accompaniment

4.2.3 Normative-meaningful accompaniment

4.3 Standard nine pupils’ giving meaning to the dynamic of teaching as accompaniment to learning

4.3.1 The status of the teacher

4.3.2 The teacher’s command of the subject and of pedagogics

4.3.3 The quality of actualizing the essences of a lesson structure

4.4 Comparative analysis of the responses from the different groups of pupils

4.4.1 Dynamics of educating-teaching as accompaniment to personal unfolding

4.4.2 Dynamic of teaching as accompaniment to learning

4.4.3 Summary of research findings

4.5 Qualitative explanation and interpretation of the nature of the favorable and unfavorable responses provided

5. AN EXAMPLE OF A SCHOOL-SITUATION ANALYSIS OF A CHILD FOR WHOM THE DYNAMICS OF EDUCATING-TEACHING PROGRESS DISHARMONIOUSLY

5.1 Introduction

5.2 Identifying data

5.3 Summarized person-image

5.3.1 Historicity image

5.3.2 Primary (home) pedagogical situation

5.3.3 Secondary (school) pedagogical-didactical situation

5.3.4 Orthopedagogic investigation
